

I believe for a detailed web design, you cannot get by with just a style tile. Combining style tiles along with full comps, gives you all the necessary detail you need to fully visualize the idea of your web design. I spent about 3 hours of different days on each style tile design. And I then chose the first one because it just felt like the right design theme for the web I am aiming to create. Through that design, I should obtain the results I want. The style tile design gave me the layout of how to place the logo and navigation bar, and for it all to match up with the background color and font color. The style tile helped me with the design of the web page while the full comp allowed me to think of the layout of all the information going in the page.
